DEPARTMENT OF COMMUNITY MEDICINE LEPROSY SCREENING CAMPAIGN

Date: 29th April 2024

Participants: II-year MBBS students

Location: Mayapuram

Time: 10.00 am – 01.00 pm

Organizer: NSS unit in collaboration with Department of Community Medicine.

Faculty: Dr Sriandaal, Assistant Professor & Dr Bharath Rajh, II-year Post Graduate

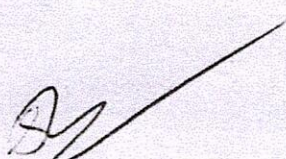

The NSS unit of Velammal Medical College in collaboration with Mahelercen, Madurai, conducted a Leprosy Screening campaign in Mayapuram, Vadipatti, Madurai on 29.04.2024 which was conducted by Dr. Sriandaal and Dr. Bharath Rajh.

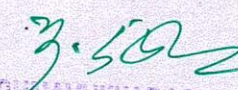

15 student's 2nd year MBBS students have participated in the campaign. Prior to the visit, basic instructions were given to the students regarding the history and clinical signs of leprosy. They were instructed to go door to door survey cum clinical examination of all the household members.

At the location, students were split into two groups and was taken into the community for door-to-door leprosy screening by Dr. Bharath.

In this screening campaign, students identified one adult male with a hypopigmented, anaesthetic patch in his left forearm. Patient details was obtained and has been referred to the nearby health centre for further investigation and management.

Then people in that locality were gathered around, to whom the students gave health education about the need for this leprosy screening campaign and emphasized that early detection in leprosy cases can be cured completely without any complication.

Appreciation Letter

The team from Velammal Medical College, including 1 assistant professor, 1 postgraduate student and 15 MBBS students from the community medicine department organized a leprosy screening & awareness campaign on 29th April 2024 in Mayapuram village, Vadipatti tk, Madurai district.

Medical students conducted a door-to-door leprosy survey in this village and also screening the villages people and distributing leprosy pamphlets. They screened 256 individuals of all age group. Through this survey one person was identified with a hypopigmented anaesthetic patch and referred for confirmation to the nearby primary health centre. From there on, we followed up with the patient for further management. As a leprosy NGO, I really appreciate the community medicine department's efforts and ask for their continued support and services.

Under the guidance of Dr Samir Bele, we organized a medical and health education camp at hands of compassion trust, Madurai. Hands of compassion trust is a rehabilitation centre and care taking home for mentally challenged elders and people needing specialized care. The organization focuses on two main aspects: health education and medical management.

After reaching the home under the guidance of Dr. Sudharsan along with Dr. Bharath Rajh and Dr. Gavin Francis a medical camp was organised. Over the course of specified period through medical assessment on more than 60 patients was conducted. During these evaluations we diligently checked for any signs and symptoms of various health condition and illness. After conducting the assessments and diagnosing any conditions, we provided appropriate medical treatments to the patient. It included, providing medication, ensuring that each patient received the necessary prescriptions and care based on their specific health needs.

After the medical camp, the 2nd year students under the guidance of Dr. Sudhir Ben Nelson, along with Dr. Thendral and Dr. Shalini, organized a program to teach people about staying healthy. They focused on helping both mentally challenged individuals and elderly residents learn important things about nutrition, exercise, hygiene, and preventing diseases. The medical students explained these health lessons in simple terms, making it easy for everyone to understand and follow. They talked about eating a balanced diet, staying active with exercises, washing hands properly, and going for regular check-ups. The program aimed to help people take better care of themselves. Dr Shalini talked about the importance of maintaining a positive attitude towards health and activities that will help them in maintaining such attitude.
