

National Reading Day

This year, the National Reading Day celebration was flagged off with a welcome address by the newly elected president of the Students' club, Dr. ILAKKIA DEVI, who is a determined and dynamic young lady.

Dr. VISHNU HARISH, the perfectionist of the cohort, who is the Vice president of Students' club introduced the first speaker for the day, Dr. RAJASEKARAN, HOD, ENT Department who delivered a speech titled "Rhapsody of reading". He was enthusiastic and spread his joy of reading books to students and suggested few books for them to catch hold of in different genres in both Tamil and English.

Dr. HARINI, the amicable and cheerful persona, also the Vice president of Students' Club introduced the second guest speaker for the day, Dr. PRAISIE, Assistant Professor, Department of General Medicine to share about the impact reading had made on her medical practice. Her charismatic narrations and her liking to always be in a middle of a book visibly piqued up the interest of new readers. She shared a few of her personal experiences and gave out her book recommendations to the young minds as well.

The event proceeded with "Books that kindled me" a competition for the first year Students, which was judged by Dr. RAJENDRAN, HOD, Department of Microbiology who is an voracious reader himself.

The honorable dignitaries of the event were felicitated by the Dean of our college, Dr. THIRUNAVUKKARASU, a man of values and enthusiasm who always reaches out to extend his support for conducting such programs as this one.

We called off the day with the vote of thanks, delivered by SHRINATH A A, the head of Students' literature club. Students were requested to donate books and few of them had come forward to contribute. The unveiling of a modest library took place in the Department of Physiology, in the presence of Dr. Anu, the mastermind behind the Students' club and the Head of Physiology Department, VMCH & RI
