All 150 students were divided into teams of 15 each and were made to participate in this role-play Competition. The topics for the competition were

Team	Topic
Team 1	Trust In Doctors (Infertility Case)
Team 2	Duties of a Doctor (Road Traffic Accident)
Team 3	Rights of a Patient (HIV Patient)
Team 4	Breaking Bad News (Cancer)
Team 5	Empathy & Communication (Downs Syndrome)
Team 6	Doctor Patient Boundaries
Team 7	Breaking Bad News (Death Declaration)
Team 8	Second Opinion (Autism)
Team 9	Second Opinion (Myocardial Infarction)
Team 10	Empathy & Communication (Transgender)

Each team were assigned one faculty member to guide them. The teams were given time to practice between 04.00PM to 05.00PM prior to the event in the department Amphibian Lab. Dr. S. Sidharth, Assistant Professor, Department of Forensic Medicine and Dr. SriAndaal, Associate Professor in the Department of Community Medicine were invited to judge this Role-play Competition. On the day of the event the teams picked lots to determine the order in which they will present. The program started with the welcome address by Dr. Noel Naveen Johnson, Assistant Professor, Department of Physiology. The teams were provided 8 mins to enact their skit and 2 mins to talk about their AETCOM topics via PowerPoint presentation. Vote of thanks was delivered by Dr. S. Anu, Professor and HOD of Department of Physiology.

The program ended with announcement of the results and Certificate distribution of the winners. Department attender Mr. Kumaresan and Ms. Mafrooha were of great help during the program.
